Staff Additions announced by Executive Protection Systems (EPS)

Winchester, VA (December 5th, 2007) — Executive Protection Systems (EPS), a leading turnkey provider of emergency preparedness solutions, equipment and training, today announced the addition of two new staff members to their team. EPS welcomes Chris Burton and Tom Thayer to their sales staff.

Chris Burton recently joined the EPS Communications Division as its business development coordinator and brings over 13 years of communications program management experience. Previously with Verizon, Chris was responsible for program management and lifecycle support of critical Verizon programs for select DOD agencies. While serving in the United States Navy, Chris also worked for the White House Communications Agency (WHCA) where he served as a SATCOM Lead on various special assignments in support of the President and Vice President.

Tom Thayer comes to EPS as the business development coordinator for the Safety Showroom. Tom comes to us from Apple Valley Mortgage where he served as a mortgage specialist. Prior to that Tom had a long tenure as a VP at Marathon Bank. Tom's sales experience from the banking and mortgage industries will greatly enhance the showroom sales team's community outreach.

"We are confident that the addition of these two key individuals will have a huge impact on our continued growth" said Mike Guevremont, CEO of Executive Protection Systems. "We welcome them aboard we know that they'll make considerable contributions to not only EPS, but the various clients that they will be working with."
